Name Starting Five

Vikings Open Cage Season This Tuesday

The Grayling High Vikings will get their 1962-63 basketball season underway by entertaining the Roscommon Bucks at the Grayling gymnasium this Tuesday night. This is a non-conference affair but on Friday night the green and white will invade East Jordan to meet the Red Devils and get conference play started.

Head coach Bruce Smith is a first of the week named starting five for the opening fray. He pointed out, however, that this squad would start providing the game that night. There could be some changes by next Tuesday, he said.

Starting at forwards will be: Tim Neal at 6 foot, 3 inches and Bill Joseph at 6 foot, 1 inch. Starting at center will be Tom Wright at 6 foot, 3 inches and at guards, Chris Kroll at 6 foot and Terry Smith at close to 6 foot. It can be seen that the Vikings will have quite good size this year.

NEXT GAME TUESDAY

Frederic Eagles Under New Coach Start Season With Loss To McBain

The Frederic High Eagles under the guidance of new basketball coach Bill Johnson were handed a stiff rebuff in their opening game at Frederic High last Friday night when McBain Christian turned them back 65 to 15.

McBain floored the big team with their star man around 6 foot, 5 inches. The rest of their front line was around the 6 foot, 3 to 4 inch range as well. The smaller Eagle players just couldn't cope with this big team which Johnson described as a strong, well balanced unit.

Plan Fall Out Shelter School

Dates and locations of special fallout shelter construction classes for the fall will be held in five locations in Michigan have been announced by Robert Tapley, Director of Civil Defense in Crawford County.

The free five-hour course in shelter construction and improvisation, family shelters and locating shelter in existing buildings will be held for interested construction industry personnel, architects, engineers and representatives of local government. The school in this area will be held at 10 a. m. on November 23, at the Otsego county courthouse in Gaylord.

No advance registration is required, and persons attending need merely report at the opening of the school. Each class will have a maximum of approximately 200 students.

The instructor will be professor Harold Hume from the department of architecture, University of Michigan. He has had considerable experience in fallout protection and is prepared to provide the information needed in this field.

There will be an open meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous on Wednesday, November 28th, at 8:00 p. m. The public is invited to attend. There will be a guest speaker, Ed B. of Alpena.

At Cadillac, Mr. Martens will be succeeded by Merland D. Porter, who has been power sales engineer for the district for a number of years.

Mr. Martens is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has been a Consumers employee since 1947. He served first as a farm service advisor in the Tawas City area, and later went to Traverse City as a special district office representative. He became district manager at Cadillac in 1955.

At Cadillac, Mr. Martens has been active in civic affairs, having been president of the Cadillac Recreation Board, president of the Manufacturers Association, president of the Rotary Club, and chairman of the Citizens Water Committee, among other activities.

Mr. Porter, a Consumers employee since 1938, served in the Lansing Division from 1945 when he was sent to Cadillac as a power and lighting sales engineer and in 1960 he became district power engineer.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Mr. Porter also has been active in Cadillac civic affairs, and has served on the Wexford County United Fund, as chairman of the Cadillac Planning Board, and in numerous other community organizations.

New Grade School Needed For District

It has been obvious for quite some time that something has to be done as far as the present properties at Grayling High School are concerned. The present building, formally opened to the public on Friday, January 21, 1916, is no longer adequate to house the increased enrollment. 624 in 1952, 888 in 1962. Following many hours of discussion among the board members and superintendent it is the consensus of the group that a new grade school kindergarten through sixth grade is the answer to the problem.

A site for such a school has been offered by the City of Grayling which the board has agreed to purchase for $25,000. This site, frequently referred to as the City park, adjoins the present Moray Hospital property with some exceptions. A 35 foot right of way next to the present fence on the East has been reserved by the City for a road leading to the back of the property where they retain all of that property across the river and a portion on the front side for a park or whatever their future needs may be. The property to be acquired by the school district contains approximately 17 acres and includes the football field. Looking to the future there should be adequate space to also build a high school, should the need ever arise.

With this decision, the board has secured the services of the firm of J. & G. Davenport Company of Grand Rapids and Petoskey, to study the problem and recommend their first duty is to make a projected study based on past enrollment and present census figures to ascertain what size school is needed. Following this they are to check the property to decide where such a building should be placed, keeping in mind any possible building needs in the future.

Local Electric Rates vs. Rates Elsewhere

(Special to the Avalanche)

NEW YORK — What is the cost of electricity in Grayling? Is it higher or lower than in other cities around the country? How much current is consumed locally per year by the average family? The answer are provided by the Edison Electric Institute and by the Federal Power Commission, which has just issued a report listing the electric rate in effect in 5,649 communities throughout the United States, as of the beginning of this year. The average monthly bill in Grayling for 100 kilowatt hours of electricity, which is the quantity normally used for small-scale lighting, appliances and refrigeration, amounted to $3.10. This compares with an average of $4.06 a month in the rest of the cities. For families that consume 250 kilowatt hours a month, which is a more usual quantity, the typical bill locally was $5.80. Elsewhere in the nation, the cost was $7.48 for this amount.

For households that use electricity for lighting, water heating, refrigeration, cooking and appliances, consuming 500 kilowatt hours a month, the typical bill locally was $8.50, as against $10.66 in the other cities.

The Federal Power Commission states that it has made no attempt, in presenting these typical bills, to determine the reasonableness of the rates. Such an evaluation, it explains, would involve consideration of the many factors that go into the production and distribution of current.

The demand for electric power in the United States continues to rise at a rapid pace, the Edison Electric Institute reports, with the result that America's power capacity now constitutes a third of the world's total.

In the overall area embracing Grayling, the use of electricity for residential purposes has been on the increase. The figures show that the average family consumed 3,953 kilowatt hours last year, compared with 3,427 in 1958, when a similar study was made.

The Price Is Right . . .

"In our economy, prices are the messages that tell people what ought to be done. If the price of something is high, that is a message to producers to try to produce more and to consumers to try to use less. How high the price is tells how hard to try. The prices of raw materials, labor, land and equipment are the messages that tell how things should be produced, for these prices reflect the amounts of the inputs available and the importance of the alternative uses for them."

Thus writes W. Allen Wallis, President of the University of Rochester, a distinguished economist, in Tax Review, a publication of the Tax Foundation. His words describe the importance of the price system as the foundation on which the free market is based. He says, "If the prices are set other than through free markets, either because of private monopoly or government intervention, the overall efficiency of the economy is reduced."

Dr. Wallis fears that there is a danger of this happening in this country. He recalls the steel episode of last April when steel, under the guns of the most aggressive kind of Presidential pressure, was forced to rescind a price increase. He feels, personally, that the price increase was a mistake and that it couldn't have been sustained in the market. But that, in his view, is beside the point. The big thing is that the Presidential action was a step, a long step, in the direction of authoritarianism—for "The very root and essence of authoritarianism is the idea that a central government has the authority to determine what is in the national interest, and to pursue that interest as defined by itself through any and all means."

As he sees it, this episode jeopardized the central source of our economic strength. It brought on a fear that we might be in for direct price and wage controls and this, he observes, may have been a major cause of the stock market drop. Far more important is the threat to our system of government—a system which is basically dependent on the maintenance of the free market and a free economy. And an integral element in that system is the limitation of powers doctrine specified in the Constitution, coupled with disinterested law enforcement. Dr. Wallis quotes a statement made by Charles Reich of the Yale Law School in the very liberal New Republic in which these words are found: "... the President has no right to force his economic policies on an unwilling industry without legislation... Freedom has little meaning if it only allows action that 'responsibly' conforms to the President's idea of the national interest..."

So much for the danger. Still, Dr. Wallis is hopeful. To quote him once more: "But there is a silver lining. A long step was taken toward authoritarianism, yes; but it leaves a considerable distance yet to be traversed. Second, it was not a step from which there is no turning back... The job before us then, is to make sure that the turning back occurs. That requires a fuller understanding, by the Administration and by the public, of the processes of a free economy, and of the long-run evils of many short-run benefits. Economic education is a difficult challenge but not an insuperable one."

The marriage of Miss Starlett Lee Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert R. Baginski, of the Manistee River, to Mr. William Randolph Hecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hecker of Hastings, took place at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, October 27th, at St. Francis' Episcopal church. The Rev. Colin Campbell officiated at the double-ring ceremony in candlelight before some seventy-five guests. White gladioli graced the altar to form the setting for the wedding. Mrs. Clarence G. Clippert presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white satin with scalloped neckline, wrist-length sleeves, with bodice of Chantilly lace and side panels of lace on the full skirt, and a tapered band of lace at the skirt bottom. Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of pearls and crystal and she carried a cascade bouquet of white mums.

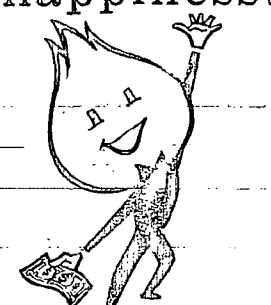

Miss JoAnn Truher of Livonia was maid of honor, Miss Karen SanCartier of Grayling and Miss Sharon Hecker, of Hastings, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaids. They wore cocktail gowns styled alike with bateau necklines, elbow-length sleeves, matching headpieces and veils, white gloves and shoes. Miss Truher's gown was citron yellow, and Miss SanCartier's and Miss Hecker's were mint green. They all carried bouquets of bronze and yellow mums.

Darrell Hamilton of Nashville served the best men, with David Pink of Traverse City and Gardiner Hager of South Boardman seating the guests.

The bride's mother chose a beige sheath dress with brown accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore avocado green with gold and black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow and bronze mums.

A reception and buffet dinner was held at Lake Valley Resort.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

November 23, 1939

When Clark E. Ferguson and his party started home to Ann Arbor Wednesday morning they had, besides a fine deer, a huge black bear. It was a beautiful animal and was estimated to weigh between 400 and 500 pounds. It was shot near Big Creek in Lovells township. The bear was coming toward him, said Mr. Ferguson, and one shot in the forehead killed it almost instantly. The fur was in prime condition and will be made into a rug, according to its captor. Mr. Ferguson resides in Ann Arbor but has a newly built cabin on Big Creek where the family enjoy a part of their leisure time as possible. Mr. Ferguson is chairman of the county road commission in Washington.

Saturday night the finals of the Golden Belt tournament were run off. Birdie Tebbetts, Detroit Tigers catcher, and Roy Hughes, second baseman for Philadelphia, presented the trophy and belts to the winners, camp Houghton Lake, a colored boys' camp, was the lucky camp to receive the gold trophy of the statue of a boxer having 31 boys entered. They won six out of the eight classes. In the tenth bout of the evening, Lucien Taliaferro of Houghton Lake won the decision from Rudy Harrison in a good fight. Due to a mistake in counting up the points the decision was made in favor of Harrison at first, which caused considerable excitement until the error was found. Delbert Bailey, Grayling won over Russell McGrogan, Mio, by forfeit for the bantam weight title. The winners in each class received gold belts and the runners-up received silver belts.

"From the Camp AuSable News—Considerable indignation was felt about camp Sunday when a hunter reported that our white fawn had been shot. One could hardly believe that any sane hunter would be guilty of such utterly unportsmanlike conduct. How anyone could mistake a white fawn, hardly as large as our dog Kayo, for an antlered deer is beyond any kind. Mr. Souders, conservation officer, kindly gave us the body and the taxidermy class assisted by enrollee Lotridge and his brother are mounting it and we hope to have it on display shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rowland and little daughter are spending Thanksgiving in Jackson.

They took home a nice buck that Mr. Geister had bagged the first hour of the opening day.

Glenn Smith of South Boardman is helping Ora Ingalls in his coal delivery business.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Reid of Twinning were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnow Hanson here for hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones and children and the former's brother Glenn Jones and wife of Lansing were weekend guests of Mrs. Fred Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson. Lady Luck was with Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jones as they each bagged a buck to take home with them.

Wayne Thomas is the name of the son that was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ora Ingalls on November 14. The babe weighed 8 pounds, 15 ounces.

Miss Dorothy Swanson has accepted a position in the dental office of Dr. J. P. Cook, and will begin her duties the first of December.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Welch of Frederic, at Mercy Hospital, November 18th. Mrs. Welch and baby are getting along nicely at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Patrick McKay.

Wednesday morning was the coldest yet so far this fall. By 6 o'clock Tuesday the thermometer had dropped to 28 degrees above zero and a 6 o'clock this morning had dropped to 20 above. The hunters are still looking for snow which the cold weather may bring.

The number of deer killed this year has been considerably lower than usual, as is reported by conservation officers. Hunters having bagged their bucks have had to go home sooner than they expected because of warm weather.

the deer hunting season their daughter-in-law Mrs. Margaret Loeffler and Miss Mary Jones of Detroit. Incidentally the ladies are helping at Paul's Tavern while here.

48 YEARS AGO

November 23, 1916

The Bargaining Illusion

If you are thinking of price shopping for a new or used car sometime soon then you would be well-advised to closely examine the various "offers" you are bound to receive.

F. C. Welsh Many a purchaser has lost money when he was trying hard to save it only because he failed to understand what he was actually buying at a seemingly low price.

If you are buying a new car, then be sure that you understand EXACTLY what accessories are included in the purchase price, how the terms of purchase, finance and insurance compare and how you stand with regard to service after the sale. The final purchase figure means nothing, of course, unless all the details are clearly understood.

It is especially easy to go wrong on a used car buy. This is because there are no two used cars in the world exactly alike. What you are really buying is not the make and year of a model. It is the UNUSED mileage that might or might not be left in the car.

Every used car we offer for sale has been checked by an experienced mechanic with the equipment to do the job. For the protection of your interests and our good name we have made it our business to refrain from retailing taxi or worn-out cars that we know will not render the service their buyer is looking for. Or to confuse the buyer on price to gain a sale.

File Bankruptcy — Word has been received from the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan at Bay City that two Crawford County men have filed in court petition for bankruptcy.

On October 17, 1961, Alfred Newell of Frederic and Robert K. Walseley of Grayling, a first meeting of creditors in both cases has been set for November 1 in the Court Room of the District Court at Bay City.

The outlays are for aid to agriculture, veterans, health and welfare, commerce, education, labor and housing, space research, natural resources and so on.

The Tax Foundation reports $26 billion in such domestic outlays scheduled for the fiscal year. That is $14 billion more than in 1954. The growth in defense spending was only $7 billion over the same period.

"Thus," it finds, "it is not national defense but civil spending" that is causing the big increase.

Continuous deficit spending in Washington, it adds, has been possible only by going deeper into debt. Our national debt is now over $298 billion.

Crawford County's proportionate share of that obligation is $1.82 per person, a total of $8,242,000.
